

For Australia Manifesto: Freedom, Democracy and Families.

VOTE 1
CHRISTOS
HARISOPOULOS

AUTHORISED BY CHRISTOS HARISOPOULOS
MELBOURNE VICTORIA

INDEPENDENT FOR ESSENDON

DON'T JUST FIGHT FOR FREEDOM
VOTE FOR IT!

For Australia Manifesto: Freedom, Democracy and Families.

<https://christosharisopoulos.wordpress.com/for-australia-manifesto/>

CONTENTS

- 1. Introduction: Welcome to the “For Australia Manifesto” (3)
- 2. My Pledge to the Citizens and Voters of Australia (5)
- 3. Bill of Rights Policy (7)
- 4. Transparency and Accountability: A Commitment to Truth and Justice (10)
- 5. Safeguarding Liberties: A Commitment to End Mandates and Lockdowns (11)
- 6. No Domestic Vaccine Passports. End the Era of Medical Segregation. Never Again! (12)
- 7. Preserving the Essence of Australian Values: A Commitment to Our Way of Life (13)
- 8. Fiscal Responsibility: A Pledge to Future Generations (15)
- 9. Safeguarding Our Shores: A Vision for Stronger Sovereign Borders (17)
- 10. Powering Australia’s Future: A Commitment to Nuclear Energy and New Dams (18)
- 11. A Fairer Tax System: Empowering Individuals and Fostering Economic Growth (19)
- 12. Environmental Impact (20)
- 13. Two Term Limits: Ensuring Accountability and Fresh Perspectives (21)
- 14. Bitcoin Policy (22)
- 15. Revitalising Australian Arts: A Vision for a Cultural Renaissance (24)
- 16. Closing the Chapter: A Heartfelt Thanks to Every Australian Patriot (26)

For Australia Ode

1. Introduction: Welcome to the “For Australia Manifesto”

Welcome to the “For Australia Manifesto,” a bold declaration of principles designed to reignite the spirit of freedom, democracy, and the sanctity of families within our great nation. What does “For Australia” truly mean? It signifies an unwavering commitment to everything that uplifts our country and its people, marking the departure from the stagnation perpetuated by the failed duopoly of the last eighty years.

Breaking Free from the Duopoly:

The shackles of the entrenched duopoly, represented by the ALP and LNP, have constrained Australia’s potential. Over eight decades, this political alliance has not only ceded 25% of our nation to the CCP, but has also sacrificed the very essence of our unique way of life—the envy of the world. The duopoly’s shortcomings are glaring, none more evident than their neglect of the Australian family unit.

Weakening of the Australian Family:

In the pursuit of power and political gamesmanship, the duopoly has overseen a gradual erosion of the core strength of our society—the Australian family. Their failure is stark: a faltering commitment to maintaining a fair and well-structured society, where individuals have the liberty to live lives aligned with their values, benefiting themselves, their loved ones, and the nation.

Time to Reclaim:

Now, more than ever, we stand at a crossroads. The call is clear—to take ownership of our votes, unseat every elected representative entrenched in the existing political quagmire, and reclaim the liberties we’ve lost. The “For Australia Manifesto” is a rallying cry to reinstate the greatness of our nation and to restore the sanctity of private lives. It is a pledge to reinvigorate the democratic principles that underpin our society and empower every Australian to shape their destiny.

What Lies Ahead:

The manifesto is not just a document; it’s a movement—a collective effort to propel Australia into a future defined by freedom, democratic vitality, and the flourishing of families. This is an opportunity for every citizen to be part of a historic shift, rejecting the old paradigms and embracing a new era of self-determination, where the people, not the duopoly, chart the course.

Conclusion:

The “For Australia Manifesto” is a testament to the resilience of our people and a beacon of hope for a future where the Australian spirit thrives. Join this movement, for it is not just a manifesto; it is a declaration of intent to reclaim what is rightfully ours—for Australia, for freedom, for democracy, and for our families.

2. My Pledge to the Citizens and Voters of Australia

In undertaking this solemn responsibility to represent the interests of the Australian people, I offer a pledge that transcends the commonplace rhetoric of politics. I recognise the profound duty bestowed upon public servants, and in alignment with the principles outlined in the “For Australia Manifesto,” I hereby commit to an unwavering standard of integrity and accountability.

Unparalleled Commitment:

I pledge to you, the citizens and voters of Australia, that my tenure as a representative will be characterized by an unparalleled commitment to the principles and policies set forth in this political manifesto. I understand the gravity of this commitment and acknowledge that deviating from the promises made is a betrayal of the public trust.

Resignation as a Consequence:

Should I, in the course of my service, fail to uphold any election promise or violate the tenets of this manifesto, I pledge to submit my resignation immediately. This is not a mere acknowledgment but a binding promise, a commitment to be held accountable for my words and actions.

Reparation for Betrayal:

Furthermore, in the event of any deviation, I will not seek refuge in the privileges of office. Instead, I solemnly pledge to reimburse all received wages to the public purse. This financial reparation is not just an acknowledgment of responsibility but a tangible demonstration of accountability—a practice seldom witnessed in the realm of politics.

Seeking Prosecution for Fraud:

Recognising the severity of breaching the trust bestowed upon me, I pledge to initiate legal proceedings against myself for fraud. This may be an unprecedented commitment, but it underscores the seriousness with which I approach my responsibilities. I invite scrutiny, welcoming the legal consequences that a breach of this pledge should entail.

Word as Bond:

In an era where political promises often dissolve into empty rhetoric, my word stands as an unyielding bond. This pledge is not a mere statement; it is a contractual commitment to the people. How many politicians can claim such a standard of transparency and accountability?

Highest Standards for Public Service:

This pledge is a reflection of the standards we deserve in public service and civic duty. It heralds a new era where representatives are held to the highest ethical benchmarks, where accountability is not just a buzzword but a lived reality.

Ensuring Transparency:

Recognizing the importance of trust between representatives and the public, I have undertaken a national police check before embarking on my Senate journey. In the spirit of transparency, I will champion a bill requiring all sitting politicians and future candidates to undergo a Working With Children police check — an additional measure to ensure the utmost integrity in public service.

In offering this pledge, I invite you to hold me accountable to the principles enshrined in the “For Australia Manifesto.” This is not just a commitment; it is a covenant — a covenant to serve you, the people, with unwavering dedication, transparency, and accountability.

3. Bill of Rights Policy

Australians more than ever need protection from the over-reach and abuse of office by public officials. I will move for a Bill of Rights – a list of the most important rights to the citizens of this great nation.

In recognition of the paramount importance of safeguarding the rights and freedoms of every Australian citizen, the “For Australia Manifesto” proudly proposes the inclusion of a comprehensive Bill of Rights. This foundational policy seeks to articulate and protect the fundamental liberties that lie at the heart of our democratic society.

Policy Overview:

1. Creation of a Bill of Rights:

Advocate for the establishment of a Bill of Rights that explicitly outlines the essential rights and freedoms of every Australian citizen.

Engage legal experts, scholars, and representatives from diverse communities to contribute to the drafting process, ensuring a comprehensive and inclusive document.

2. Protection of Civil Liberties:

Affirm the right to freedom of speech, expression, and peaceful assembly as cornerstones of our democratic society.

Safeguard the right to privacy, emphasising limitations on government surveillance and data collection.

3. Equality and Non-Discrimination:

Enshrine the principles of equality and non-discrimination, irrespective of race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, or socio-economic status.

Advocate for policies that eliminate systemic discrimination and promote equal opportunities for all Australians.

4. Right to a Fair Trial:

Guarantee the right to a fair and impartial trial for every citizen, including access to legal representation and due process.

Oppose any legislation that undermines the presumption of innocence until proven guilty.

5. Protection of Property Rights:

Recognise and protect the right to property ownership as a fundamental aspect of individual freedom.

Advocate for policies that prevent arbitrary seizure of property and ensure just compensation in cases of compulsory acquisition.

6. Freedom of Association:

Uphold the right of citizens to freely associate, assemble, and participate in peaceful protests and demonstrations.

Oppose any legislation that seeks to unduly restrict or suppress these fundamental rights.

7. Rights of All Australians:

Acknowledge and respect the rights of all natural born Australians, and those fortunate enough to successfully be granted citizenship.

8. Freedom of Speech:

Affirm the right to freedom of speech as fundamental to the workings and health of any democracy.

Oppose any attempts to curtail or restrict this God-given right for Australians.

Implementation:

Establish a bipartisan parliamentary committee tasked with drafting the Bill of Rights, ensuring broad representation and fairness.

Conduct public consultations and engage with civil society organisations to gather diverse perspectives on the proposed rights.

Introduce legislation to formally adopt the Bill of Rights into Australian law, subject to a national referendum for public endorsement.

Promotion and Public Awareness:

Develop a nationwide campaign to educate the public about the importance of the Bill of Rights and its implications for protecting individual freedoms.

Engage with media outlets, community leaders, and educational institutions to foster a broad understanding and appreciation of the rights enshrined in the Bill.

Conclusion:

The inclusion of a Bill of Rights in the “For Australia Manifesto” reflects a commitment to the principles of freedom, democracy, and the inherent dignity of every individual. This policy seeks to empower Australians by codifying their fundamental rights, ensuring a just and healthy democratic society for generations to come.

4. Transparency and Accountability: A Commitment to Truth and Justice

In the spirit of a truly democratic society, it is paramount that Australians are granted unwavering transparency and accountability from their elected officials. This commitment extends beyond mere promises; it demands action and a reevaluation of historical decisions that have veiled critical information from the public eye.

One significant initiative on this front is the urgent lifting of the 90-year suppression order. This veil, drawn over a considerable period, has obscured facts and information crucial to understanding our nation's history. By lifting this order, we embrace an era of openness where citizens can be fully informed, fostering a society founded on the principles of truth and knowledge.

Moreover, a new investigation into the Wood Royal Commission is not just a revisiting of the past; it is an investment in our future. The declassification of police documents, which purportedly contain the names of 28 high-profile individuals, including a former Prime Minister, is not an act of sensationalism but a pursuit of justice. The objectives of this and all future Royal Commissions should transcend political considerations, focusing squarely on informing the community on matters of concern, irrespective of the shocking or distressing nature of the findings.

Our duty and obligation to preserve justice and protect our children must override any hesitations. It is a call to action without fear or favor, guided by the principles of fairness, integrity, and an unwavering commitment to the welfare of our nation's most vulnerable.

In championing transparency and accountability, we take a bold step towards a society where trust in institutions is earned through openness, and justice is the bedrock on which our democracy stands.

5. Safeguarding Liberties: A Commitment to End Mandates and Lockdowns

In our unwavering commitment to the liberties of every Australian, we recognize the imperative to end mandates and lockdowns. The experience of Covid-19 has taught us valuable lessons that must shape our approach to future health emergencies.

Respecting Constitutional Rights: Upholding Section 92

The free movement of people and trade, as enshrined in Section 92 of the Australian Constitution, is a cornerstone of our democracy. We declare an end to any infringement on these fundamental rights. Our pledge is to ensure that such restrictions are never imposed again, safeguarding the freedom of movement that is integral to our national identity.

Informed Medical Consent: A Non-Negotiable Right

The principle of informed medical consent is non-negotiable. We adamantly oppose any measures that coerce or force Australians into medical decisions against their will. No government or unelected bureaucrats shall implement mandatory vaccinations or medical treatments through force or coercion. We vow to restore the sanctity and privacy of the doctor-patient relationship, recognizing that medical decisions should be guided by informed choice.

Learning from Experience: Clear Procedures for Future Emergencies

The lessons learned from the handling of Covid-19 must guide our future approach to health emergencies. We advocate for the implementation of clear procedures to protect the vulnerable and elderly, ensuring a targeted and effective response. Our commitment is to balance public health measures with the preservation of individual liberties, learning from past experiences to forge a path forward.

Royal Commission: A Transparent Examination

To ensure accountability and transparency, we call for a Royal Commission into the federal and state handling of all Covid matters. This includes a thorough examination of decisions that led to the banning of safe and effective medications. The government's role in our private lives must be reevaluated, and this commission will serve as a critical step in reestablishing trust and transparency.

6. No Domestic Vaccine Passports. End the Era of Medical Segregation. Never Again!

In the pursuit of a free and united Australia, it is imperative that we safeguard the liberties of every citizen. The call to end the imposition of domestic vaccine passports echoes our commitment to individual freedom and the rejection of any policy that leads to the medical segregation of Australians.

The Pillars of a Free Society: Unity, Freedom, and Equality

At the heart of this policy is a profound belief in the foundational principles that define our nation: unity, freedom, and equality. Domestic vaccine passports threaten to erode the very essence of our democratic values, creating divisions among our citizens based on their medical choices.

The Right to Choose: Respecting Individual Agency

Respecting the autonomy and agency of every Australian is paramount. No citizen should be coerced into a medical decision against their will. Our commitment is to uphold the right to choose, ensuring that medical decisions remain a matter of personal choice, free from undue external pressures.

Medical Privacy: A Cornerstone of Individual Rights

The principle of medical privacy is non-negotiable. Australians should not be compelled to disclose their medical status to access everyday services or participate in society. Our pledge is to safeguard this fundamental right, recognising that the sanctity of medical information is central to individual privacy.

A Unified Australia: Beyond Divisive Policies

We reject any policy that threatens to divide our nation. The call for no domestic vaccine passports is a call for unity — a reaffirmation that, in the face of challenges, we will stand together as one Australia. The era of medical segregation must come to an end, and it must be a commitment we make with the unwavering resolve of never allowing it to happen again.

7. Preserving the Essence of Australian Values: A Commitment to Our Way of Life

In our pursuit of a stronger, united Australia, we advocate for the protection and preservation of our unique way of life and fundamental values. This commitment extends to safeguarding democratic institutions and hard-won basic freedoms that define us as a nation.

Safeguarding Basic Freedoms: A Cornerstone of Australian Identity

We stand firm in our dedication to uphold the pillars of our democracy—free thought, speech, parliamentary democracy, religion, and freedom of association. These are not just rights; they are the bedrock of our identity, fostering an inclusive society that thrives on diversity of thought and expression.

Cultural Exchange of Australian Values: A Beacon to the World

We champion the free trade in Australian values, culture, and ideas, aspiring to be a beacon and example to the free world. By sharing our unique perspectives and embracing the diversity of others, we contribute to a global dialogue that celebrates the richness of human experience, whilst maintaining our way of life.

Revitalising Education: Fostering True Reform

To fortify our commitment, we advocate for true education reform. This involves removing bureaucratic entanglements, undoing and preventing the politicisation of the curriculum. Our vision for education is one that empowers individuals with critical thinking skills, fostering a generation capable of navigating an ever-evolving world.

Balanced Immigration Policies: A Two-Decade Pause

We propose a two-decade halt on immigration, coupled with a referendum on future migrant numbers and origins. This measured approach ensures that the Australian public has a say in shaping the demographic landscape, preserving the delicate balance that makes our nation unique.

Accountability and Integration: A Ten-Year Good Behavior Bond

To underscore the importance of accountability, migrants will be subjected to a ten-year good behavior bond. Any violent or fraudulent transgressions leading to a conviction will result in the voiding of citizenship applications and the immediate repatriation of the individual and their family, leaving no child behind.

Empowering Citizenship: A Tertiary English Language Course

As a testament to the significance of language in fostering unity, migrants will undergo a tertiary two-year English as a Second Language course and exam. A 51% pass mark will be required to proceed to the final step of citizenship, ensuring linguistic proficiency and effective integration.

Religious Equality: A Considered Approach

In addressing concerns about religious practices, we emphasise that our stance is not one of exclusion but a careful consideration of the balance needed to maintain our national identity. The decision to refrain from building new mosques stems from a commitment to religious equality and a desire to avoid potential cultural conflicts.

A Proud Australia: Nurturing Our Strengths

Australia, as a nation, leads the world in accepting, tolerating, and respecting foreign values, cultures, traditions, and beliefs. However, this openness should never compromise our own identity. Our strength lies in a harmonious blend of freedom, tolerance, humanity, traditions, and a rich history that ties us to the heart of Western Civilization.

Conclusion: A Vision for Australia's Future

In preserving and protecting Australian values, we envision a future where diversity enriches our nation, democratic principles endure, and our unique identity and way of life remains an example to the world.

8. Fiscal Responsibility: A Pledge to Future Generations

In the intricate rhythm of governance, fiscal responsibility is not merely a buzzword but a solemn pledge to the prosperity and well-being of our nation. The daunting challenge of a 1 trillion dollar deficit requires not just acknowledgment but swift, strategic action.

Smaller Government for a Bigger Tomorrow

A commitment to a smaller government sets the stage for a profound transformation. By meticulously trimming red tape and eliminating waste, we pave the way for a government that is not only modern and efficient but also responsive to the evolving needs of our citizens. This is not a compromise on essential services; rather, it is a recalibration towards a leaner, more effective administration.

Repaying the Deficit: A Debt-Free Tomorrow

The burden of a staggering deficit should not be a legacy bequeathed to our children and grandchildren. It is a responsibility we shoulder today. The journey toward fiscal solvency starts with a concrete plan to begin repaying the 1 trillion dollar deficit. This is not merely an economic strategy; it is an ethical imperative, a commitment to the principles of intergenerational equity.

Term Limits: Fostering Renewal and Accountability

In the halls of Parliament, the embrace of term limits is a bold move towards fostering renewal and accountability. It transcends party lines and places the focus squarely on the ideas and initiatives that truly serve the Australian people. Two terms for both Houses of Parliament ensure that our elected representatives are consistently attuned to the pulse of the nation, fostering a culture of continuous service.

Wage Freeze and Inflation-Indexed Increases: Shared Sacrifices for Shared Gains

A ten-year wage freeze for all politicians is not just a belt-tightening measure; it is a shared sacrifice for a shared gain. This period of fiscal prudence allows for a recalibration of economic priorities. Future increases indexed to inflation ensure that the hardworking public service is not left behind, nor too far ahead of the average punter, aligning with the natural progression of economic dynamics.

In navigating the complex terrain of deficit reduction, the commitment to fiscal responsibility is not a mere policy but a testament to the values we hold dear: stewardship, accountability, and a vision for a debt-free tomorrow.

9. Safeguarding Our Shores: A Vision for Stronger Sovereign Borders

In the complex tapestry of global geopolitics, the security of our sovereign borders stands as an unassailable pillar of our nation's strength and resilience. The commitment to strengthening Australia's borders is not just a policy; it is a solemn pledge to protect our citizens and preserve our way of life.

A Modern Armed Forces for a Modern Australia

The cornerstone of our defense strategy lies in having a modern and well-equipped Armed Forces. This goes beyond conventional measures; it extends to embracing cutting-edge technologies and capabilities that position us at the forefront of defense innovation. The inclusion of nuclear submarines and the consideration of deterrent nuclear weapons in the future underscore our commitment to staying ahead of emerging threats.

Global Alliances: Fortifying Ties, Ensuring Peace

Our strength is amplified when we stand shoulder to shoulder with like-minded democracies across the globe. Strengthening ties and formalizing alliances, particularly with the world's largest democracy, India, is not just a strategic move; it is a testament to our shared values and commitment to upholding democratic principles. In a world marked by uncertainty, these alliances become beacons of stability and cooperation.

Guarding Against Corrupt Influences: Defending Our Democracy

The rise of corrupt and nefarious influences poses a clear and present danger to the integrity of our internal affairs. The shadow of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) looms large, and we must confront this challenge head-on. Combatting these influences is not merely a matter of policy; it is a duty to our citizens, a commitment to preserving the democratic fabric that defines our nation.

In charting the course for stronger borders, we must not only invest in cutting-edge defense capabilities but also forge alliances that amplify our collective strength. It is a multifaceted approach that addresses not only conventional threats but also the insidious influence of corruption and authoritarianism.

10. Powering Australia's Future: A Commitment to Nuclear Energy and New Dams

In our pursuit of a sustainable and prosperous future for Australia, we recognize the imperative to address the energy crisis and create jobs for our citizens. We propose a comprehensive strategy centered around the implementation of nuclear power and the construction of new dams.

Nuclear Power: A Cleaner and Abundant Energy Source

Australia possesses the world's largest deposit of uranium, providing us with a unique opportunity to harness nuclear power. Scientific and modern programs will be implemented to develop nuclear power plants, offering a cleaner and more abundant fuel source. The end goal is to achieve zero-emissions, ensuring reliable, efficient services at competitive prices. We draw inspiration from the successes of Europe, China, and the United States, acknowledging that embracing nuclear power is essential for Australia to compete on the global stage.

New Dams: Drought-Proofing and Irrigation

Initiating a bold move to address water scarcity, we commit to the development of new dams, starting with the 1938 proposed Bradfield Scheme. This visionary project aims to irrigate and drought-proof vast areas of western Queensland's interior and significant portions of South Australia. By investing in water infrastructure, we not only secure a more sustainable water supply but also create jobs and support agricultural development in these regions.

Building a Sustainable Future for Generations to Come

Our commitment to nuclear power and new dams is rooted in the responsibility we bear to future generations. By embracing advanced technologies and implementing strategic infrastructure projects, we lay the foundation for a sustainable, prosperous, and environmentally conscious Australia. This comprehensive approach reflects our dedication to ensuring energy security, job creation, and the long-term well-being of our nation.

11. A Fairer Tax System: Empowering Individuals and Fostering Economic Growth

In our pursuit of a fairer tax system, we aim to create an environment that empowers individuals and stimulates economic growth. The key tenets of our tax policy are designed to simplify, flatten, and incentivise, ensuring that every Australian, whether an individual or a business, benefits equitably.

Progressive Taxation for Individuals and Simplification

Individuals and businesses earning more than $45,000 will benefit from a simplified and flattened personal tax system. Under our proposal, the tax rate for these entities will be set at 20 cents in the dollar. This progressive yet straightforward approach aims to reduce complexity, making the tax system more accessible and equitable for all Australians.

Red Tape Reduction for Small Businesses

Recognising the pivotal role of small businesses in driving economic vitality, we commit to cutting red tape. Our objective is to provide small businesses with the regulatory relief they need to thrive. By streamlining bureaucratic processes, we aim to create an environment where entrepreneurial endeavors can flourish without unnecessary impediments.

Regional Incentives for Economic Dispersal

To encourage economic activity outside major cities and promote regional growth, we propose a 49% tax concession incentive for individuals living and working more than 151 kilometers from any capital city. This initiative is designed to address regional disparities, empower local economies, and create opportunities for Australians in diverse geographical locations.

Fostering Economic Growth through Tax Policy

Our vision for a fairer tax system is grounded in the belief that economic prosperity should be accessible to all Australians, regardless of their income or location. By simplifying the tax structure, easing the burden on small businesses, and incentivising regional economic activity, we aim to foster a climate of sustained growth, innovation, and opportunity.

12. Environmental Impact

In our commitment to environmental impact, Australia has emerged as a global leader in recycling, covering a spectrum from food to cardboard, plastic, waste, and water. This is a testament to the collective efforts of our citizens and the promises of successive Local, State, and Federal governments to reduce our ecological footprint. It is time to translate these efforts into tangible financial benefits for the Australian people.

Maximizing Returns from Recycling Efforts

Australia's citizens have diligently contributed to recycling initiatives with the expectation of reduced gas, electricity, and water costs. However, these promises have never been kept. As part of our manifesto, we pledge to ensure that the benefits of recycling schemes are effectively passed on to the Australian people. By optimising the returns from recycling efforts, we aim to create a sustainable cycle where environmental responsibility translates into economic relief for households across the nation.

Global Emission Reduction and Australia's Stance

Recognising the global nature of environmental challenges, we affirm that until the world's largest polluters take substantial steps to reduce emissions, Australia must avoid imposing additional restrictions. Our commitment is to strike a balance between environmental responsibility and the social and economic well-being of the Australian people. We will advocate for a fair and equitable distribution of responsibilities among nations, ensuring that environmental policies do not disproportionately burden our citizens.

A Vision for an Environmentally Responsible and Prosperous Australia

Our vision is clear: to champion environmental stewardship while safeguarding the interests of the Australian people. By maximizing the benefits of recycling efforts, promoting responsible global partnerships, and maintaining a balanced approach to environmental policies, we aim to create a future where ecological sustainability and economic prosperity coexist harmoniously.

13. Two Term Limits: Ensuring Accountability and Fresh Perspectives

In our commitment to fortify the pillars of democracy, we advocate for the implementation of two-term limits for members of both the House of Representatives and the Senate. This strategic policy aims to inject new energy, ideas, and perspectives into our political landscape while fostering accountability among elected representatives.

Consecutive Two-Term Limits

Under our proposal, elected officials may serve a maximum of two consecutive terms, or within three election cycles. Following this period, the candidate becomes ineligible to run for a decade. This measure prevents the entrenchment of power, ensuring that our representatives remain attuned to the evolving needs and aspirations of the Australian people.

Compulsory Political Service: A Paradigm Shift

To further broaden the pool of political talent and instill a sense of civic duty, we advocate for a system of compulsory political service. Modeled after jury duty but subject to stricter regulations and rules, this system will be overseen by an independent body. Eligibility criteria include being a natural-born citizen, attaining the age of eighteen, and having no upper age restriction.

This innovative approach highlights the urgency of addressing voter apathy and encourages a more engaged and informed electorate. By mandating political service, we aim to create a political landscape that is dynamic, responsive, and representative of the diverse voices within our society.

Empowering Citizens: Shaping a New Political Landscape

The implementation of two-term limits and compulsory political service is not just a policy but a call to action. It reflects our dedication to empowering citizens and reshaping the political landscape. This commitment is rooted in the belief that a vibrant democracy requires the regular infusion of new perspectives and the active participation of its citizens.

14. Bitcoin Policy

Bitcoin, the decentralised digital currency, represents not just a technological innovation but a paradigm shift in how we perceive and interact with money. Recognising the potential and benefits of Bitcoin for Australia, the following policy proposal is aimed at integrating Bitcoin into our financial systems and economy.

Policy Overview:

1. Legal Recognition:

Advocate for the legal recognition of Bitcoin as a legitimate form of currency and a store of value.

Work towards developing a regulatory framework that fosters innovation and protects consumers without stifling the growth of the Bitcoin ecosystem.

2. Education and Awareness:

Implement educational programs to inform the public, businesses, and government agencies about the fundamentals of Bitcoin and blockchain technology.

Foster awareness about the benefits of a decentralised financial system and how it aligns with the principles of freedom and individual sovereignty.

3. Bitcoin Infrastructure:

Invest in the development of robust Bitcoin infrastructure, including secure wallets, exchanges, and merchant processing systems.

Collaborate with the private sector to create an environment conducive to Bitcoin-related startups and businesses.

4. Government Adoption:

Introduce Bitcoin into government financial systems for specific use cases, such as international transactions, to reduce reliance on traditional banking systems.

Explore the use of Bitcoin in public services, such as welfare distribution and voting systems.

5. Bitcoin in Financial Planning:

Encourage citizens to consider Bitcoin as part of their long-term financial planning.

Work with financial institutions to provide options for Bitcoin investment in retirement funds and savings accounts.

6. Promote Bitcoin Mining and Innovation:

Support Bitcoin mining operations in Australia, leveraging the country's abundant energy resources.

Foster research and development in blockchain technology and its applications beyond currency, such as smart contracts and decentralised identity solutions.

7. International Collaboration:

Collaborate with other nations that are proactively integrating Bitcoin into their financial systems.

Work towards establishing international standards for the use and regulation of Bitcoin to facilitate global transactions.

Implementation:

Establish a dedicated task force or regulatory body responsible for overseeing the implementation of Bitcoin-related policies.

Engage in open dialogue with stakeholders, including Bitcoin developers, businesses, and the wider community, to address concerns and ensure a smooth transition.

Conclusion:

This Bitcoin policy aligns with the core principles of the "For Australia Manifesto," aiming to usher in a new era of financial freedom, innovation, and resilience for the Australian people. By embracing Bitcoin, we can position Australia at the forefront of the digital economy, empowering individuals and safeguarding our democratic values.

15. Revitalising Australian Arts: A Vision for a Cultural Renaissance

In our pursuit of a vibrant, free and culturally rich Australia, we champion the revival of Australian arts. Recognizing the pivotal role that arts play in shaping our national identity, fostering creativity, and promoting our way of life, we propose a significant increase in funding, elevating it to $500 million. This commitment reflects our dedication to fostering a dynamic and flourishing arts landscape.

Democracy and Balance: A Fair Allocation of Public Funds

Our approach to allocating public funds for the arts emphasises fairness, democracy, and balance of views. We reject the notion of funding individuals or groups with extreme political beliefs, whether from the left or the right. Instead, citizens eligible for funding will represent the diversity of Australian society, spanning a wide spectrum of political, cultural, and artistic arenas. Our vision is to ensure that public resources contribute to a tapestry of voices, reflecting the richness of our nation and unique heritage.

The Song of Australia: A Unifying Anthem for All

We believe in the power of cultural symbols to unify a nation. The “Song of Australia” should be a melody sung by all Australians, transcending individual creators. While honoring the originator, it should become a shared anthem representing our collective identity. We reject the idea of a single pen selected by the state to propagate values inconsistent with our cherished democracy. Diversity of thought, whilst emphasising on our unique traditions, culture, history, and way of life should be celebrated, not suppressed.

Transforming the ABC: A Call for Objectivity

In addressing real left-wing bias within the ABC, we propose a comprehensive overhaul, and the addition of moderate and conservative voices within the organisation. Emphasising objectivity, we seek to broaden the representation of views and news on both radio and television. Immediate defunding of the ABC is on the agenda, accompanied by the introduction of cuts to make it an attractive entity for potential private ownership. Our stance aligns with the belief that a democratic government should not own or fund a media organisation, ensuring an independent and pluralistic media landscape.

Cultural Renaissance: Shaping the Future of Australia

Our commitment to the revival of Australian arts is more than a policy; it's a vision for a cultural renaissance. By investing in the arts, promoting democratic values, and transforming media representation, we aim to build a resilient, proud, and culturally vibrant Australia.

16. Closing the Chapter: A Heartfelt Thanks to Every Australian Patriot

In concluding this manifesto, I extend my deepest gratitude to every Australian patriot who has invested their time in reading these pages. Your commitment to engaging with the ideas and values presented here is the heartbeat of our democratic journey.

This document is not static; it's a dynamic testament to our collective aspirations. As we, the custodians of Australia's future, grow and evolve, so too will this manifesto. It will breathe with the energy of our shared dreams, adapting and expanding to meet the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead – ensuring we celebrate, maintain and preserve our way of life.

Thank you for becoming a part of this transformative narrative, for your dedication to the principles that define us, and for envisioning a stronger, more united Australia. Together, we embark on a journey to fortify our nation's foundations and shape a future that reflects the true spirit of our great land.

God Bless Australia!

"Beneath the Southern Cross I stand. One Heart, two hands, you understand. Everything I say, and do – is For Australia! Australia!"

"For Australia Ode" by Christos Harisopoulos

Authorised by Christos Harisopoulos, Ascot Vale Melbourne Victoria 3032